DISARONNO

About Disaronno

Disaronno Originale is an amaretto-tasting liqueur with a characteristic almond taste made in Italy. Disaronno's "secret formula" is unchanged since 1525, and claims the Amaretto Legend "Luini tale" as its own particular history.

The product was called "Amaretto di Saronno" (Amaretto from Saronno) before rebranding the liqueur "Disaronno Originale" for marketing reasons in 2001.

It is produced in Saronno, in the Lombardy region, and sold worldwide. Disaronno can be served straight up as a cordial, on the rocks, or as part of a cocktail mixed with other alcoholic beverages, Coca-Cola, ginger ale, or fruit juice. It may also be added to hot chocolate and is an ingredient in the Italian variant of an Irish coffee.

About Himalayan

Himalayan water is bottled at source from a pure and pristine underground moving stream aquifer, which is about 400 feet below the surface, located at the foothills of the Shivalik range in the Himalayas. This aquifer is one of the largest and purest sources in the world, providing a perennial source of natural mineral water. The catchment area has no human activity and is pollution-free.

Every drop travels through layers of rock, sand and silt for over 20 years. These layers act as natural filters and keep the water naturally pure and bacteria-free. During this journey, the pure water picks up essential minerals and acquires its fine, unique taste before reaching an underground reservoir.

The aquifer is naturally protected from pollutants by a thick impervious layer of clay that acts as a barrier and prevents any contaminants from passing through it.
